

Invitation to participate in a study for dementia carers

UNIVERSITY OF LIVERPOOL

Are you an unpaid carer for someone living with dementia in the North West in unassisted care?

Would you like to participate in a research study exploring use and experiences of dementia support services during the COVID-19 pandemic?

The study will involve one interview which will be held over telephone or video software (e.g. Zoom)

It is hoped that taking part will be interesting for you, providing the opportunity to discuss your experiences and contribute to improving dementia health services, during COVID-19 and for the future

Participants must be an unpaid carer for someone living with dementia in the North West in unassisted care, and aged 18+

If you would like to participate, or want any more information about the study, please contact Maddie Harriman via email at
